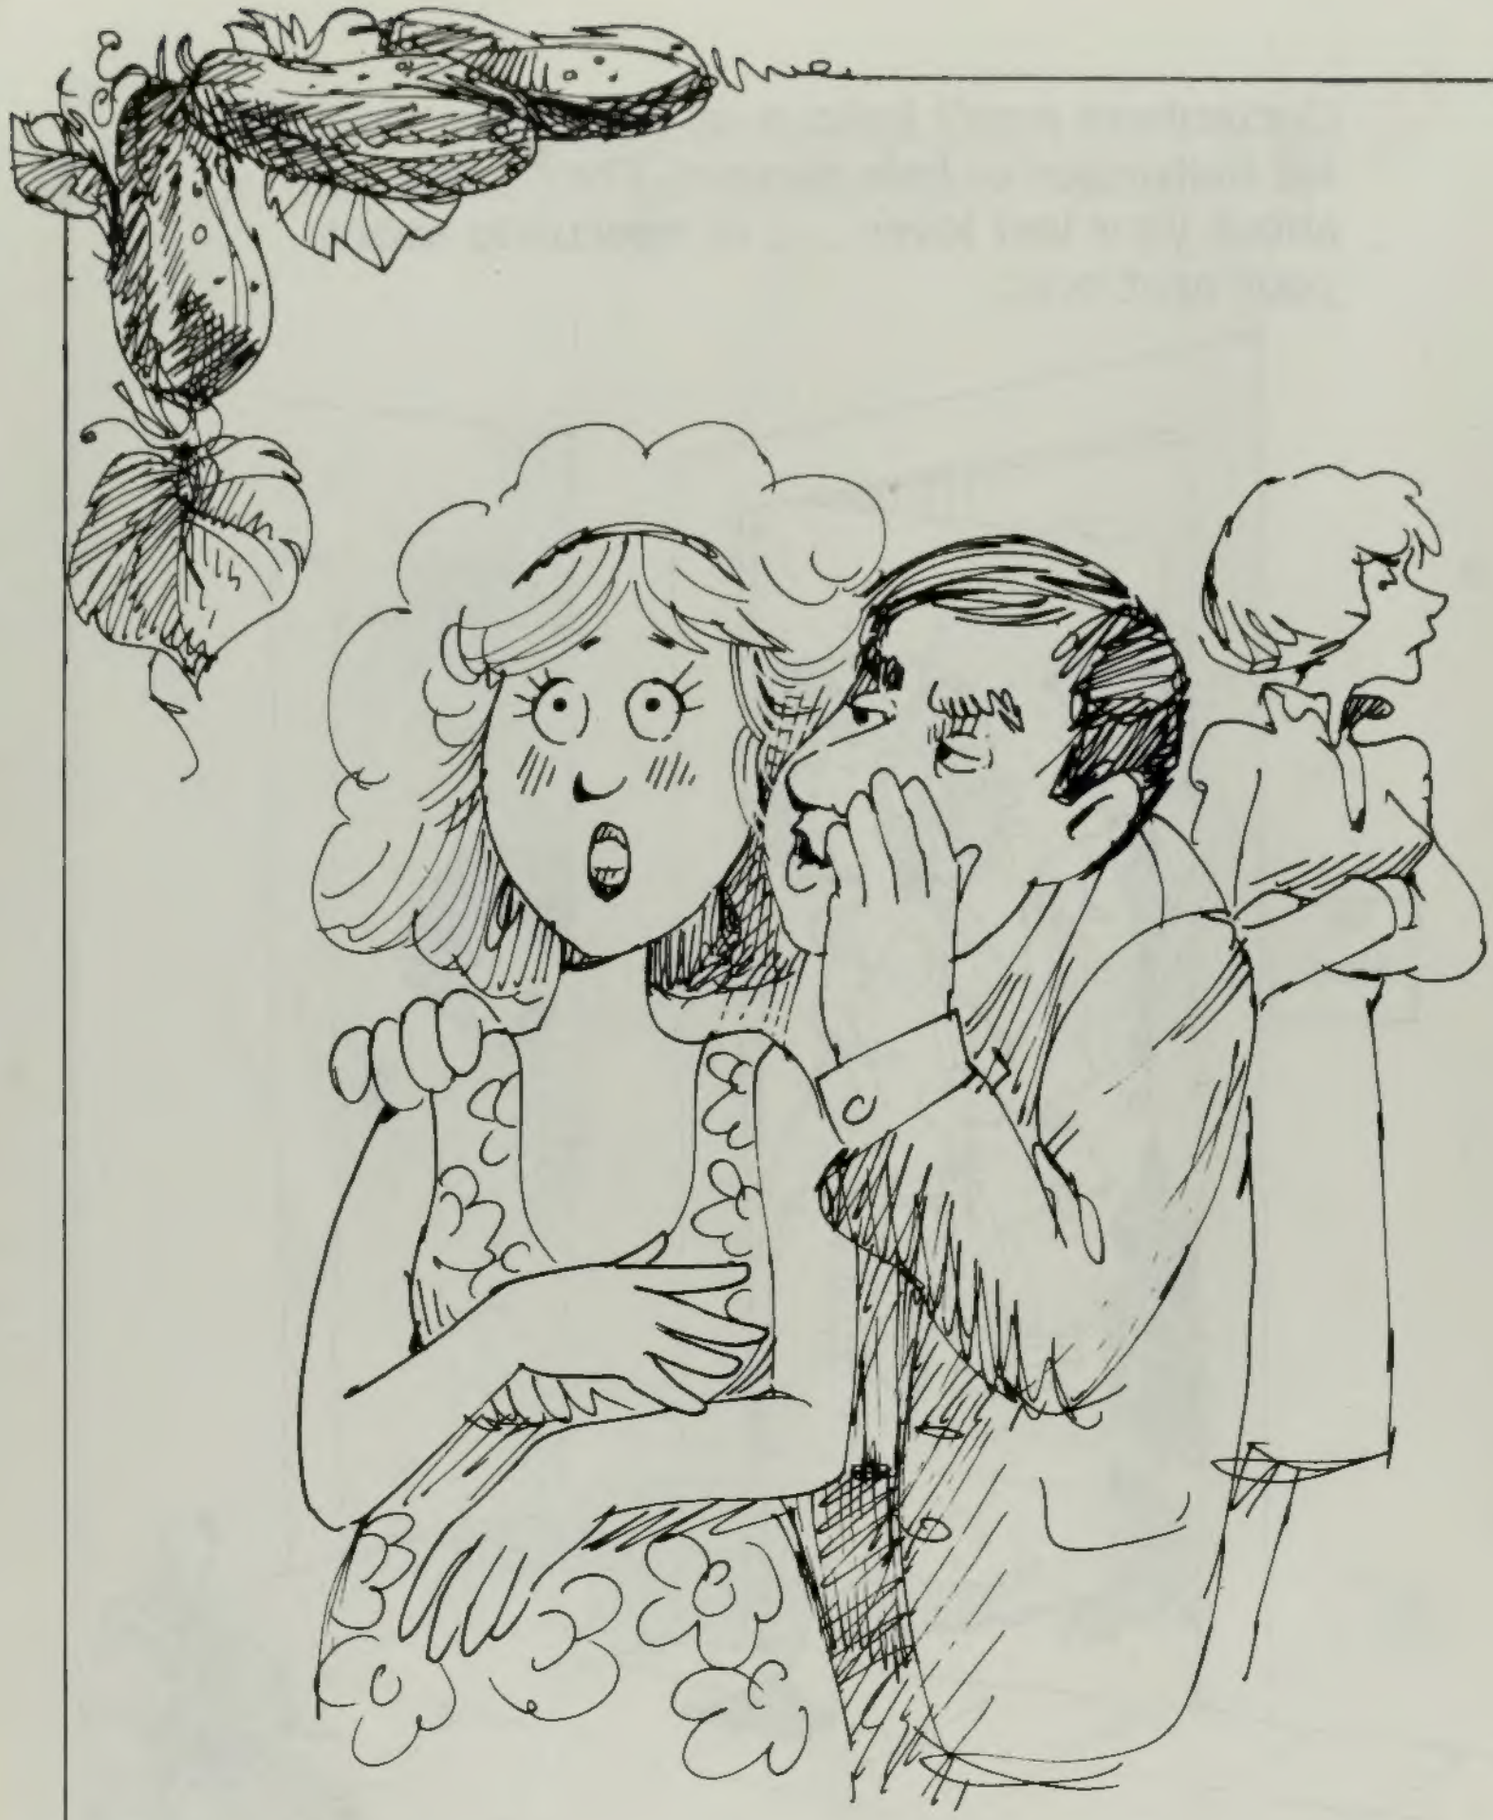
With all due apology to vegetarians and salad lovers the world over, we are happy to present this compendium listing just a few of the areas in which cucumbers show the teeniest superiority over the male species.

Cucumbers stay hard for a week.

The average cucumber is at least six inches long and a cucumber won't tell you size doesn't count.

Cucumbers aren't jealous of your gynecologist, ski instructor or hair dresser. They won't ask about your last lover . . . or speculate about your next one.



The cucumber you love will never proposition your best friend and will never make a scene because there are other cucumbers in the refrigerator.

A cucumber never wants to improve your mind or enter into meaningful conversation.

A cucumber doesn't care if you don't shave your legs and won't bug you about exercising or losing weight.

Cucumbers can stay up all night...and you won't have to sleep on the wet spot.

Cucumbers don't leave you wondering for a month. A cucumber won't tell you a vasectomy will ruin it for them, nor tell you they had a vasectomy when they really didn't.

Cucumbers can't carry colds or clap . . . and cucumbers grow their own penicillin.

A cucumber won't turn your bathroom into a library, nor go through your medicine chest. A cucumber won't use your toothbrush, roll-on, hair spray, or leave hair in the sink or a ring in the tub.

Cucumbers never ask, "Are you ready yet?"

Cucumbers won't serve to your backhand. A cucumber doesn't care if you beat them at sports – or intellectual pastimes.

Cucumbers grow in "it"; they aren't full of it. A cucumber will always respect you in the morning.

With cucumbers you'll never find used jogging shorts in your lingerie drawer. Cucumbers don't expect you to do their laundry.

Cucumbers never ask your age. No matter how old you are, you can always get a fresh cucumber.

You can fondle a cucumber in the supermarket . . .and you know how firm it is before you take it home. A cucumber will never give you a hickey.

Cucumbers can get away any weekend. With a cucumber, you can get a single room and you won't have to check in as "Mrs. Cucumber".

You can go to a movie with a cucumber...and see the movie. A cucumber won't eat all the popcorn...and send you out for milk duds.

A cucumber will respect your privacy and never wants to do it in unusual places. A cucumber can always wait until you get home.

Cucumbers never need a round of applause. Cucumbers never suffer from performance anxiety. Cucumbers won't ask: "Am I the best?" "How was it?" "Did you_____?" "How many times?" Cucumbers don't get too excited.

Cucumbers don't care if you're a virgin. They won't tell other cucumbers you're a virgin or that you're not a virgin anymore. With cucumbers, you don't have to be a virgin more than once. Cucumbers don't compare notes.

Cucumbers don't have sex hangups and won't make you wear kinky clothes. Cucumbers aren't into chains and leather or talking dirty

You can have as many cucumbers as you can handle.

You only eat cucumbers when you feel like it.

A cucumber won't ask for for a transfer just when you're up for a promotion. Cucumbers don't care if you make more money than they do.

A cucumber won't switch channels from your "soap" to All Star Wrestling.

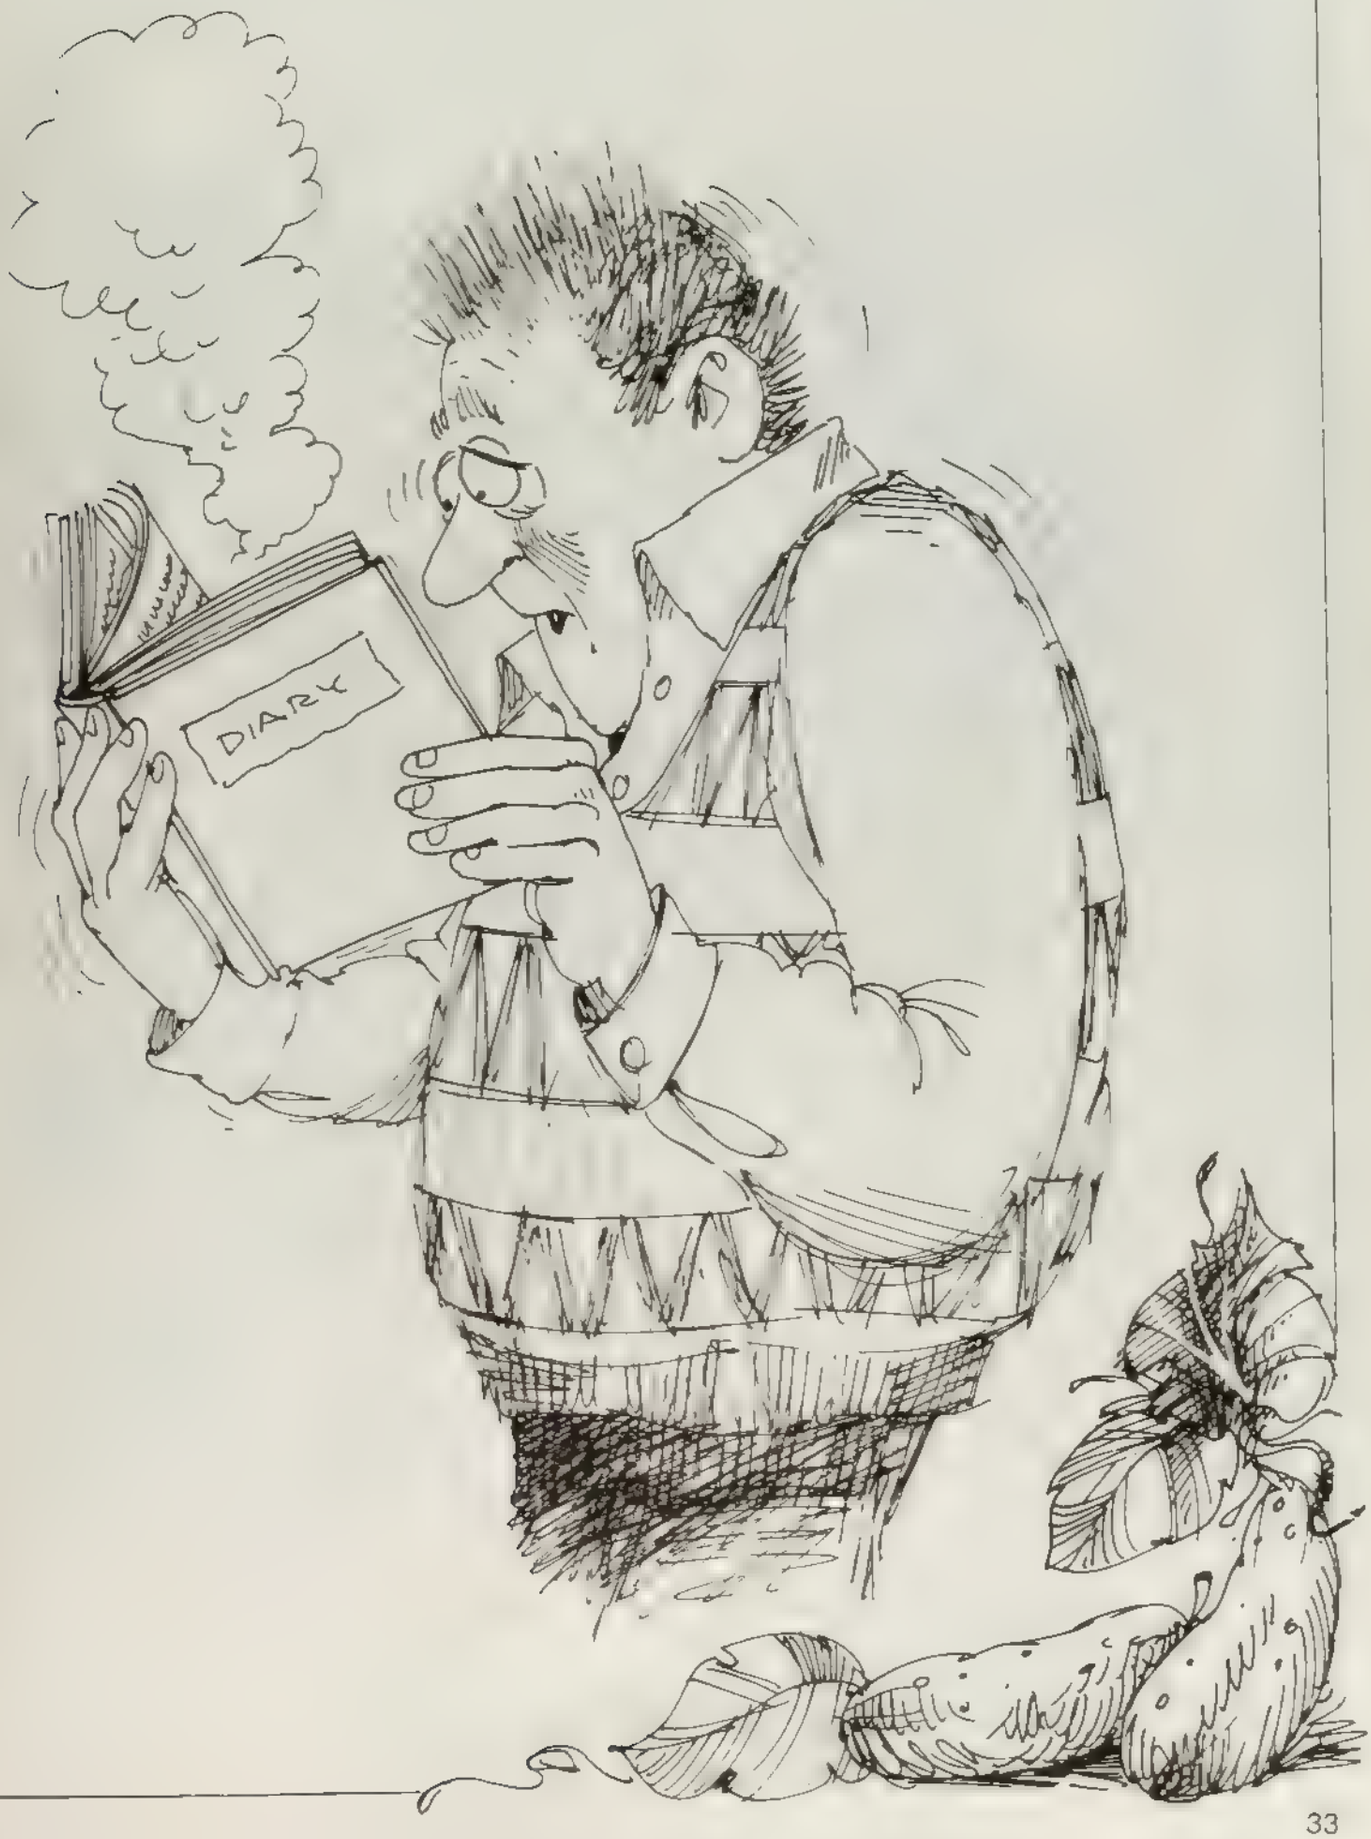
Cucumbers don't bum cigarettes and don't beg to come over to dinner. A cucumber won't eat all of your food or drink all of your liquor.

Cucumbers won't turn your sewing room into a gym, cool down their running shoes in your refrigerator, or practice weight lifting with you as the barbells.

A cucumber will never call and say, " I have to work late, honey" and then come home smelling like another woman, or drunk out of his mind. Cucumbers are still good when they're pickled.

Cucumbers don't ask, "What do we try next?"

A cucumber won't read your diary, will never answer your phone or borrow your car.



A cucumber isn't allergic to your cat.

Cucumbers don't leave whisker burns, fall asleep on your chest, or drool on the pillow. Cucumbers don't have sharp toenails and dull minds. You'll never catch your cucumber demanding breakfast in bed.

A cucumber won't tell you he's not the marrying kind.
A cucumber won't tell you he is the marrying kind.

A cucumber never wants to get it on when your nails are wet.

A cucumber will never contest a divorce, demand a property settlement, or seek custody of anything. A cucumber won't expect you to convert to his religion.

A cucumber won't compare you to a centerfold.
Cucumbers won't grade you on the basis of 10.

Cucumbers wont make you go to the drugstore.

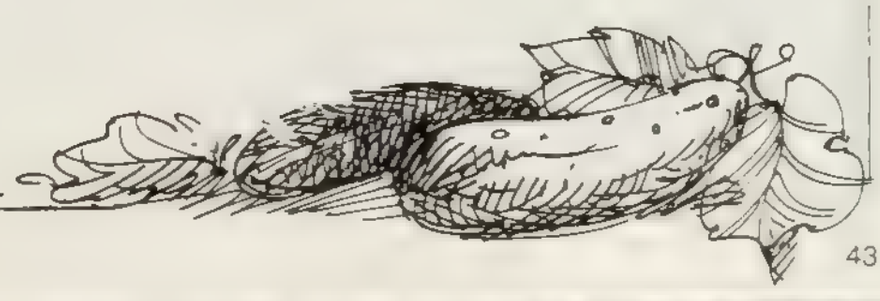
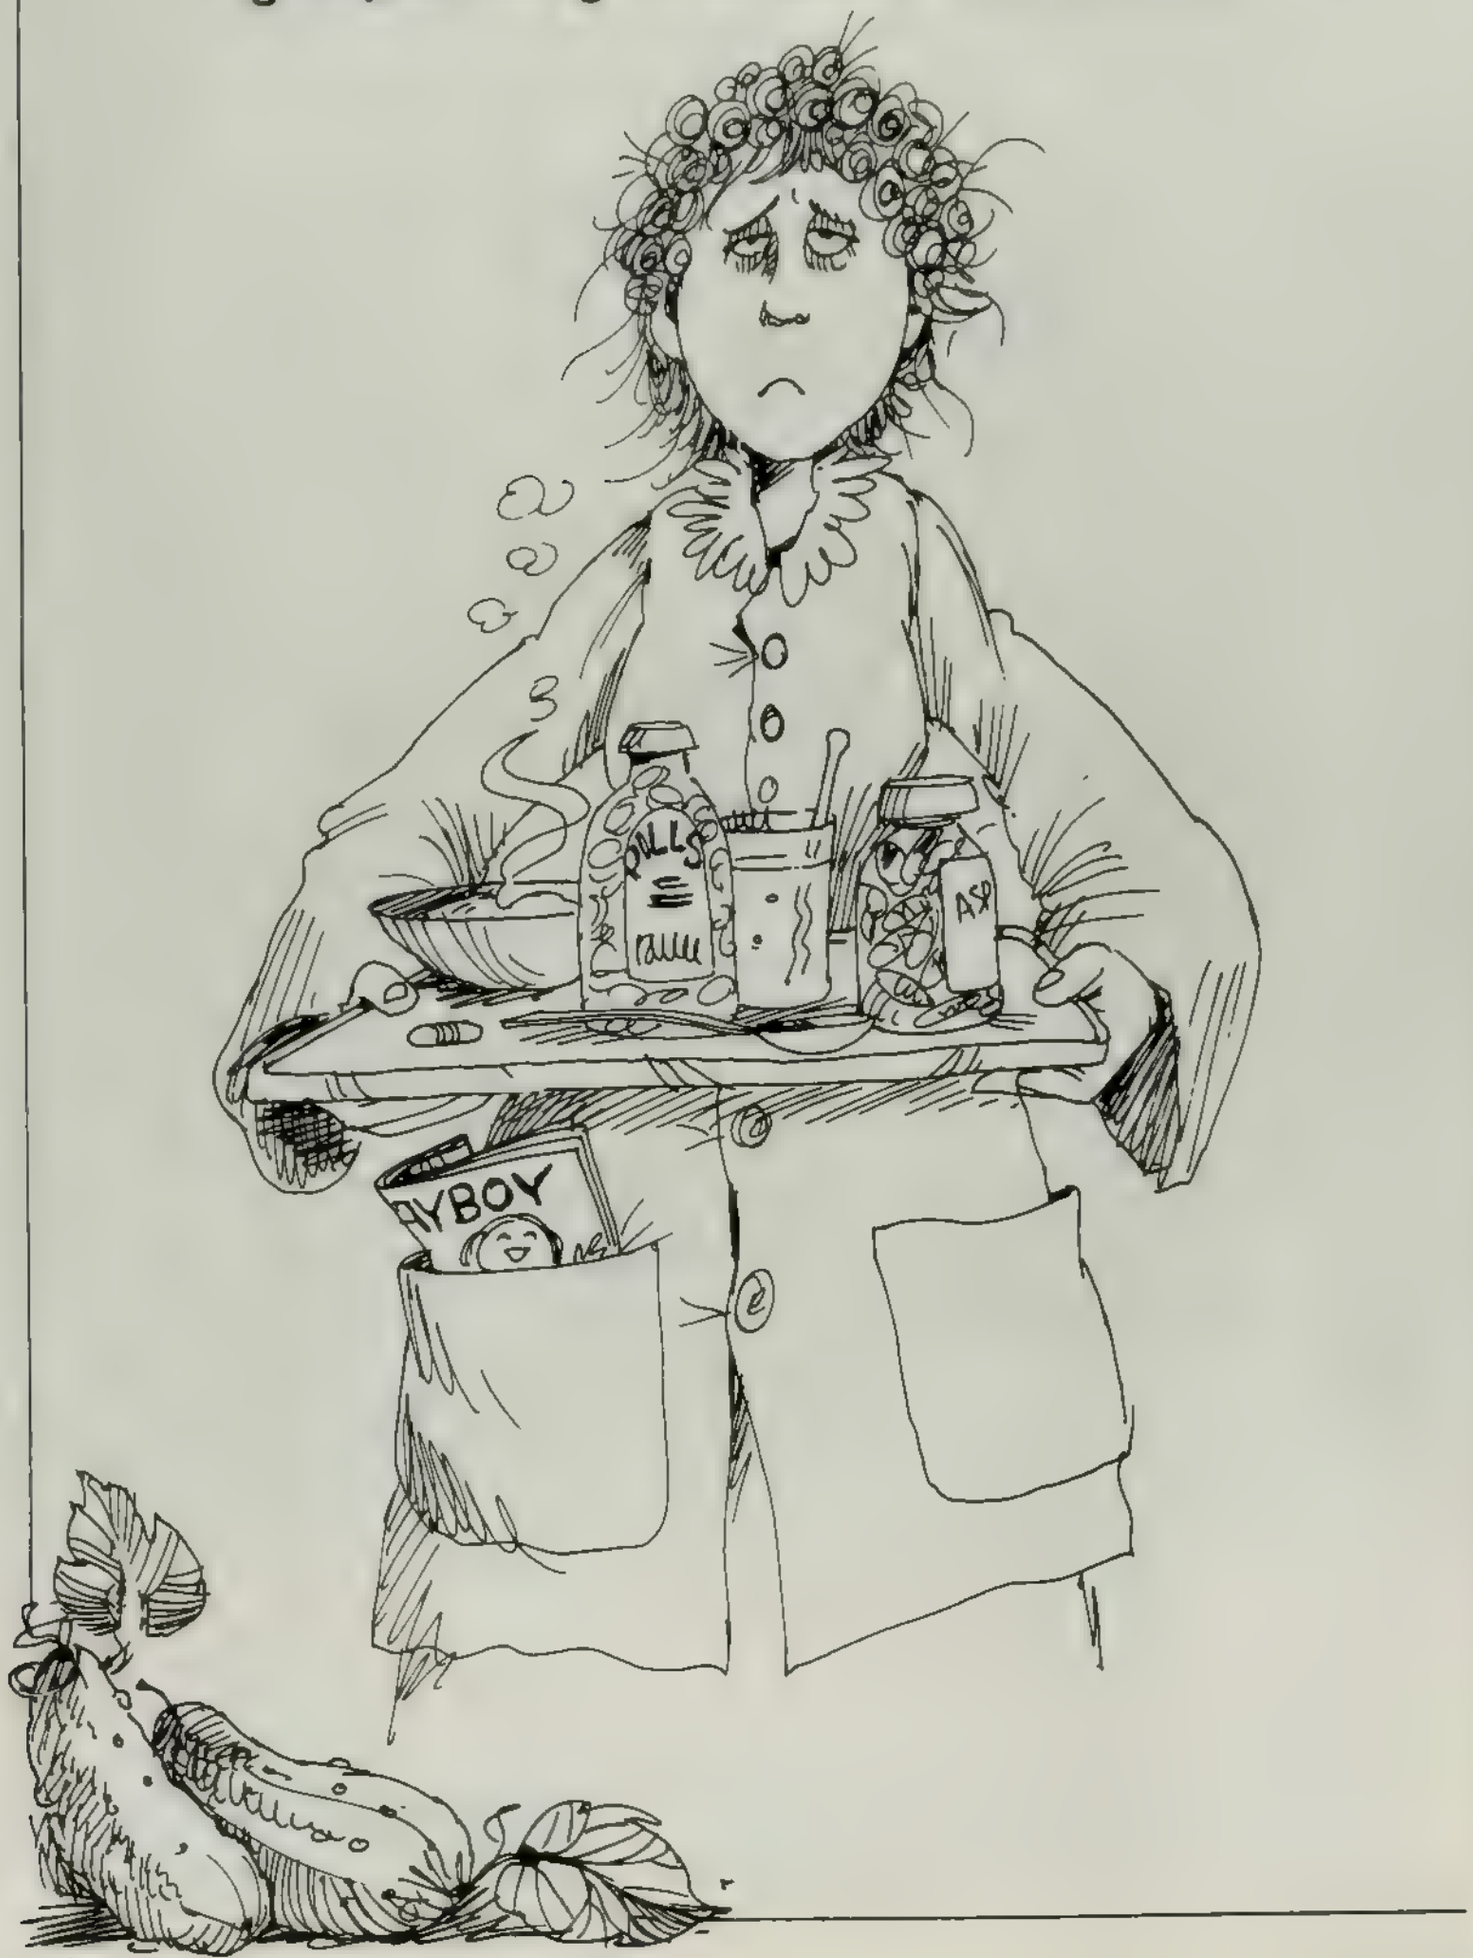
You won't find out later that your cucumber is married.

You don't have to wait until halftime to talk to your cucumber.

A cucumber won't turn on to every leg or breast that passes by.



With a cucumber, you don't have to play Florence Nightingale during the flu season.



A cucumber will never call you by the wrong name.

Cucumbers never want to take you home to meet their mothers, nor invite their mothers to stay with you. Cucumbers don't have mothers.

Cucumbers can handle rejection. It's easy to drop a cucumber. A cucumber wouldn't feel hurt or intimidated by anything in this book.
